W. W. DIMOND'S

It is during such weather as we are now having that the memories of the oldest inhabitants fail. Between the time of the last equinoctial storm and the present so many things have occurred that bad weather records are lost sight of.

But it is cold weather just the same, colder than is desirable by people who boast of a climate where sun forms the chief ingredient. This climate is changing just as it is in other places, just also, as the peoples' opinion change about certain things.

For years there has been a prevailing opinion that but one kind of stove was worth taking into the house. The opinion was sound so long as there was no other stove against it, but with our Empire Jewel range, with large square ovens, ventilated and quick bakers, reservoir for hot water, towel bar and tea cup shelves and a hundred other conveniences the people are willing to admit they have made a mistake and concede everything to the Jewel.
